

IGBC BEAR-RESISTANT PRODUCTS

THESE PRODUCTS HAVE A PAST
CERTIFICATION BUT NOT A CURRENT VERIFICATION ON RECORD WITH IGBC

Attention!

You may notice that the IGBC's list of certified bear-resistant products has recently changed.

Manufacturers of IGBC-certified bear-resistant products are required to verify that their products are still manufactured to their original specifications, and that they are still available to consumers, and to pay an annual product recertification fee. This process helps ensure that the information IGBC is providing to the public about these products is accurate and current.

Products from manufacturers that have completed this verification process appear on this list of IGBC-certified bear-resistant products. If a manufacturer has not completed the annual verification process (including payment of their administrative fees), then their products do not appear on the IGBC's list of certified products. The list below includes these unconfirmed products.

Manufacturers can contact the testing program, confirm the status of their IGBC-certified products, pay the required administrative fee, and have their products added back to the official IGBC list of certified bear-resistant products.

IGBC Bear-Resistant Products Not Confirmed

As Available for Purchase

Interagency Grizzly Bear Committee (IGBC) Bear-Resistant Products (BRPs) provide a way to meet requirements for securing food, garbage, and other attractants on public and private lands. These BRPs have been tested by the IGBC and meet or exceed minimum IGBC standards.

Each year the IGBC contacts the manufacturers of these products to confirm that product specifications have not changed since tested and certified by the IGBC. The IGBC has not been able to confirm that products listed are currently being manufactured to the same specifications tested and certified, or are currently available for purchase by consumers. As a result, these products are not included on the main list of certified products. They are considered IGBC-certified, however.
